Workshop Leader:

Chris Jodouin, P.Chem.

Principal Instructor, CHEM Safety

With over 30 years experience, Chris has been an employee, manager, business owner, health & safety advisor, committee member, consultant, trainer, and facilitator. He specializes in providing high quality workplace education sessions to clients across Canada.

Canada Labour Code II: What Managers and Supervisors Need to Know

The Canada Labour Code, Part II, places many important demands on employers and others with the authority to assign work. Learn about your legal responsibilities for workplace health and safety, and what it means to exercise due diligence.

Join us in a 1-day workshop session. Through instruction, discussion, group exercises, and case studies, you'll learn:

- ✓ Managing occupational safety and health (OSH): whose job is it anyway?
- ✓ What are the legal duties of employers, managers, and supervisors?
- ✓ How can you practice due diligence on an ongoing basis?
- ✓ How can the Health & Safety Committee provide support?
- ✓ What is a federal Hazard Prevention Program, and what's your role?

This workshop is ideal for:

- ◆ Senior managers, managers, and supervisors who have not completed mandatory OSH training, per CLC II
- ◆ Health & Safety Committee chairpersons and members
- ◆ Health & Safety advisors, and others, who wish to learn more about federal legislation (Canada Labour Code II)

Join us in a small group environment.

This workshop is limited to 12 participants.
